You can watch any prime-time Emmy Awards show for free if you have an antenna or cable subscription. Cord cutters can watch the entire Emmys live from a computer, tablet, smartphone or TV with a compatible streaming device and any service offered by ABC. Date: TBDTime: 5 p.m. PT/8 p.m. ET (before show red carpet coverage goes live at 3:30 p.m.m. PT/6:30 p.m. ET, and you can watch fox live stream)Location: Los Angeles, CAHost: TBDChannel: ABCStream It's on: ABC.com or ABC app; Hulu + Live TV, Sling TV, AT&T TV now, or YouTube TV ABC owns the rights to broadcast the Primetime Emmy Awards, but that doesn't mean you need an antenna or cable subscription to watch. Cord cutters have several options to stream the entire ceremony online. If you're stuck at your computer or have a laptop handy, but there's no TV in sight, you can head over ABC.com to stream the Emmys. This option requires a cable or satellite subscription, but it's a great option if you're withdrawn to sit in front of your TV for the entire awards show. To stream the Primetime Emmy Awards, go ABC.com to the site in the browser you chose and select Watch Live. Verify your satellite or cable subscription if prompted, and you must exist. Return on the day of the ceremony, and complete the live stream. If you have a cable or satellite subscription, you can also stream prime-time Emmys to your phone, tablet or even TV streaming device using the ABC app. The ABC app is available for iOS, Android, Amazon Fire, Apple TV, Android TV, Roku, and more. Once the ABC app is on your device, you'll need to provide your cable or satellite credentials to gain access to a live stream of current ABC programming. Launch the app on the day of the ceremony, and you'll be applied to stream it live. In addition to ABC.com's official website, you can also live stream the local ABC channel and prime-time Emmy Awards through a number of popular streaming services. These live TV movies work by making deals with local stations, so this option is only available if your local ABC station is on board with one or more of these services. Most of these services have some kind of free trial, so make sure to sign up a little early and make sure that the ABC actually works in your area. If the service doesn't have an ABC, you won't be able to stream the Emmys. AT&T TV now was formerly known as DirecTV now, and has all the same channels. They are able to provide ABC, CBS, Fox, NBC, and many others in most areas. Hulu + Live TV pairs one of the most popular streaming services with live TV. It offers local ABC, CBS, Fox and NBC channels in most areas, and also carries cable channels like ESPN and more. They have a 30-day free trial. YouTube TV is a live TV streaming service from Google that also offers on-demand content and a cloud-based DVR. They offer ABC, CBS, Fox, NBC, and more in most areas. They also offer a free trial. Sling TV Offering NBC and Fox in a limited number of markets, so it's not a good choice for the Emmys. A free trial is available, but save it for something that will air on NBC or Fox. Live TV from ABC is only available from these providers in participating markets. Be sure to check availability in your area some time in advance. If you live in an area where ABC isn't available through ABC.com or any of the streaming service available, then there's no official way to stream the Emmy Awards. In this case, you may need to turn to less formal means to view the awards. Unofficial currents are less reliable and generally lower in quality, but they exist. Sources like Ace Stream allow you to stream events like the Emmys directly from other viewers, and other sites provide similar streams that you can watch without downloading anything at all. If you want to use this method, wait until the day of the Emmy Awards and search the Web for Emmys Ace Stream content IDs or unofficial live EMMY streams. Stick to trusted sources for the Ace Stream content ID and unofficial live streams when possible. Before visiting unknown sites in search of this type of content type, install Good Update Blocker and Antivirus. Search for malicious pop-up ads, and never provide your email address or credit card number. Use this type of services only on yourself. A lot of TV streaming services, and even ABC.com, are a locked area. This can make it difficult or impossible to use these services if you live in a restricted area. To pass these restrictions and stream the Emmys, you may want to consider using a virtual private network (VPN). Don't you have a VPN yet? Check out our list of the best VPNs to find a big one. Some VPNs are great at running around area locks, and others aren't. And even when you can get around an area lock, you may find that the streaming service requires your billing address to adjust your physical location and also be within a supported geographic area. This means VPNs are not foolproof, but this method is still worth trying. The Emmy Awards are ahead of the red carpet going live.m at 3:30 p.m., 3:30 p.m.m. Another cover was previously available from EW and E!, so keep your eyes peeled as the ceremony approaches. You can browse the Emmy Awards page where to view it for more information, but the program isn't available to stream on this site. Thank you for letting us know! Tell us why!
